Notes on using genetic information in our assessment.

Thank you for the application for life insurance with OnePath.

This form is to be completed by the life insured ('you') or the authorised agent of the life insured (the financial adviser) to provide consent for OnePath to use protected genetic information as part of the assessment of an application for life insurance.

Protected genetic information includes any information about:

- whether the life insured or a genetic relative has undergone, intends to undergo, or has been recommended to undergo, genetic testing; or
- any such tests undergone, including the results.

By law, we cannot use protected genetic information when making a decision about the application for life insurance unless all of the conditions below are met:

- The life insured, or the authorised agent, or a treating medical practitioner authorised by the life insured, provided the genetic information knowingly, and it was not requested or solicited by OnePath.
- You (or the authorised agent) consent in writing to genetic information being used in our underwriting process.
- The use of the genetic information when making a life insurance contract decision does not lead to any disadvantage to the insured person or third-party beneficiary under any contract entered into.

Important information

- The provision of genetic information is not a requirement
- We do not ask for the provision of genetic information

Declaration and consent

By signing this consent form, I the life insured (or authorised agent on behalf of the life insured):

- Consent to OnePath (and any relevant service providers) using the genetic information in its assessment of the application for life insurance.
- Confirm that the genetic information is/was knowingly provided.
- Confirm that OnePath did not request, solicit or encourage the provision of any genetic information.
- Understand that providing this information will not disadvantage the outcome of the application for life insurance.
